

Angie Boger

Angie originally hails from Central Illinois and moved to STL in 2017. She attended Eastern Illinois University where she majored in Music Education. She taught grades Pre-K through 12 Music and Choir for 12 years combined in IL and MO. She got her first teaching job on the far east side of the state where she joined her first band, a three piece acoustic group named Freestyle Acoustic.

After a new teaching job moved her away from the area and her band, she still pursued music as a solo act. She started up guitar lessons with the widely acclaimed guitarist, Marty Williamson of Effingham IL. Her goal was to be able to play a two hour set alone. She now does 2-3 hour solo acoustic gigs covering a wide variety of music at wine bars, breweries, and bar patios. She has a special passion for Folk/Americana and anything related to her personal musical hero, Brandi Carlile.

She has found “her people” in the STL Musicians community and feels very lucky to be establishing relationships and projects with them. Her favorite part about playing in a group is the harmonizing possibilities.

She lives in U City with her husband and three kittens, Calvin, Hobbes, and Susie.
